

ABOUT ME

ROSEMARY GEORGE MW

What qualifies me to write and comment on the Languedoc? Quite simply, I have been following its development for thirty years. I was one of the first women to pass the Master of Wine exams, back in 1979, and I became a freelance wine writer in 1981, since when I have written eleven books, covering not only the Languedoc, but also Chablis, Tuscany and New Zealand.

WEDNESDAY, 11 JUNE 2014

The Languedoc around the tastings Part II - Waitrose

Quite a large selection from Waitrose; some good, some less exciting.

2013 Villa Blanche Pinot Noir Pays d'Oc, Calmel & Joseph- £8.99

Pinot Noir sourced in Limoux. Medium colour. Quite a ripe fresh nose and on the palate some rounded ripe fruit. Good varietal character, fresh strawberry fruit with a streak of tannin. A refreshing summer red.